My mind drifts
in solitude
in an effort
To produce the reflections of people
I once knew.

Their faces float
back to me
as a trickling
Spring of emotions
once felt.

I long to catch those moments and hold them
In my hand.

But they rush away from me as quickly
As the ebbing tide.

I run to follow their trail of security
But they escape me.

I am alone.
until like the unexplainable
Tide, they flow back into my Mind and soul filling me with an Inner content.

I smile as they ebb back
Into the tranquil seas of my mind

To sail on forever.

The sun shines on Mannford

"The sun shines on Mannford" or so says Danny Moyer, Joy Hover, and Joyce Tinker, the artists who painted the picture with those words on it. The sun did seem to shine on Mannford students and faculty throughout the year, because many things they participated in resulted in success.

The football team won District Champions after many hard practices and games. Four girls on the track team went to state competition. "WomenSports" selected Barbara Mckaughan as one of our Oklahoma High School All-stars.

Success an MHS goal

The Yearbook staff is proud of the students and faculty who contributed to the successes of our high school.

The "Pride" won Best All-around Newspaper in class B at the Northeastern State University Press Day. Kim Carter won first in feature writing. First year novice Debate team went to state competition. Student Council donated 3,500 dollars to build tennis courts. Art students won awards in the Mannford Oklahoma Bicentennial Art Exhibit. Gae Lea Broaddus won first in state and in the top eight in the nation in mathematics over petroleum in the National DECA Career Conference.

Randall "Bert" Carson

April 10, 1961-June 24, 1975.

Bert began school in Sand Springs, moving to Mannford in the fourth grade. He was an honor student and had a perfect attendance record until his first illness of congestive heart failure struck in January, 1975.

Bert, who was very active in summer baseball programs in Sand Springs and Mannford, was a member of the State Championship Baseball Team for his age group in 1968, 70, and 73 and was chosen for the All Star Team in 1971.

A participant in football, basketball, and track in Mannford Elementary and Junior High School, Bert was also a member of Mannford's first football squad to go undefeated during the 1974 season, his eighth grade year.

An active member in 4-H Club, Bert was most interested in raising and showing swine. Bert was also a very active member of the Boy Scouts, winning many merit badges. His hobbies were water skiing, camping, cycling, hunting, fishing, and horseback riding.

Bert was a very conscientious worker. During his illness, he continued to do his homework so he could keep up with his classmates; he was promoted to the ninth grade at the end of the 1975 school term.

Bert was well liked by his classmates and was supported by many friends and teachers during his illness.

Reverend Goff, Mannford Assembly of God pastor, gave the following eulogy: "Rather than to try to discover why precious young flowers are plucked from the garden of life, it will do us more good and lead us closer to God, if, instead, we will spend our time trying to understand our own position in times like these."

Bert is survived by his mother, Vivian Evans Smith, his stepfather, Leonard Smith, and his brother, Duane Carson. Duane is a graduating senior this year.

His father, Jessie Carson, and stepmother, Patsy Carson, reside in Muldrow, Oklahoma.

Children Around The Throne

*Around the throne of God in Heaven
Thousands of children stand;
Children whose sins are all forgiven,
A wholly, happy land.
In flowing robes of spotless white
Each one shall be arrayed;
Shall dwell in ever lasting light,
And joys that never fade.*

Launching the Victory Ship

Excitement! Adventure! Winning! The call went out for men to sail the Pirates's Victory Ship. Twenty-eight enlisted under the new commander, Head Coach Joe Ballard. It wasn't long before the long, muscle-straining practices lowered the number to twenty-two. Not all those who remained were the biggest and the fastest, but as Coach Dean Pierce put it, "A person who has the physical attributes is like icing on the cake if he has the desire. Without desire, it would make no difference how much physical ability he had." Fortunately, those spirited young men had that quality and knew how to use it. With Joe Ballard at the helm, they achieved pride, a team attitude, and one big word called "Discipline". Confidently, they sailed from the practice field to conquer their opposition, and return victorious.

Pirates sack district championship

Having sailed directly into the storm of the season, the captain and crew secured their vessel, and prepared to wage war. Their early victories were close and hard-fought. Without warning, the tide turned and the Pirates experienced two consecutive defeats. With an unsinkable will to win, they urged their craft over the giant swells, and plundered the District Championship. Never before had a team with a 6-0-4 record accomplished so much. Now, the team hoisted the sails for the conquest of the Hominy Bucks. Fate, however, played a cruel joke and the Pirates lost.

When the Victory Ship moored in the harbor, there were crowds shouting, awakening the dying school pride. They may have been sixteen points from a State Championship, but they were heroes at home. For the second time in history, a '76 revolution had heightened the spirit of leadership, independence, and pride.

What makes a game exciting and interesting? Ask any eighth or ninth grade football player, and he'll tell you it's the winning. He'll also tell you it takes hard work, pain, spirit, determination, and even tears to win. A price, they considered worth paying.

Under the leadership of Ron Humphrey, the eighth grade pirated its way to win after win. Although the loss to Hominy was discouraging, they recovered quickly. With vengeance simmering through their veins, they marched on, ending the season with a 5-1-1 record. Equally impressive, the ninth grade and Coach Roger Floyd mauled their victims, and captured the Conference Championship with a 6-0-2 record.

If the past is any indication of the future, the Jr. Fleet will have much to look forward to as they continue to broaden their horizons, sail on to new adventures, make new memories, and take on the challenge of another football season.

Varsity girls show ability in District Tournament

After a v-e-r-y s-l-o-w start, the Senior High girls basketballers concluded their season by winning the district championship.

"We were too scared," said Sherry Jobe, forward, accounting for the team's early losses.

A few sprained ankles added a flavor of anxiety as players begged excuses from classes to sit in the therapeutic Whirlpools.

Senior high boys experience new coach, new ideas

A young basketball team—three sophomores, one junior and one senior—and new coach, Tim Carson, flew into the 1975-76 season high in enthusiasm, but lacking in experience. The result was a lot of close games but only two wins.

"They can look forward to better seasons," said Senior guard, Don Worley, "but inexperience caused us to choke up in tight situations."

Baseball—One of the youngest teams, but may mature to become the best

The MHS baseball team, under the coaching ability of Mr. Charles Prater, showed their strength against their opponents with a 5-7 record, beating Coweta (9-1) (7-2), Cleveland (7-2) (6-2) and Hominy (3-2). The team, one of the youngest in recent MHS history, consisted mainly of freshmen and sophomores. This gives the team a chance to mature and become very competitive in the upcoming years.

Track...

What do hours of jogging, sweating, toiling, and straining get you? Nothing, except maybe sore muscles and perhaps a chance at the state track title. The MHS track team offered very strong competition in local track meets. Providing the hottest competition was the girls' 880-yard relay team, who placed third in regionals in Hominy. Their performance at regionals qualified them for the State Track Meet at Edmond, where although they did not place in competition, they ran the fastest time they ever had. Coach Dean Pierce has a team he can be proud of.

Reflections of character

Finished? ... or just beginning?

How does a Senior feel? Anticipation of a life to come and sorrow at the thought of leaving old friends are mingled. Good times and bad are remembered, each with an equal measure of warmth. New friendships are made, current ones strengthened, and old ones are renewed as the class attains a closeness never felt before for their last year together.

Then...graduation. The diplomas are received with tears and smiles. And then it's over. The goal which seventy-two Seniors have been striving toward the past twelve years has been reached. They are finished...or are they just beginning?

Junior class activities unlimited

What do juniors (and their sponsors) dislike most? People who don't buy anything from them! They braved trials such as heat storms and barking dogs to peddle their wares in order to raise money for the year's highlight, the prom and banquet. The "wares" included magazine subscriptions and boxes of candy. Even yet, not enough money was in the bank, so they maintained the concession stand at basketball games.

On May 20, after tense moments, everyone settled down to dinner in the beautiful Heritage House and enjoyed the music of the band.

Juniors anxiously await, receipts in hand, turns to claim their Senior '77 rings.

Sophs have mixed ideas

Although the excitement of being in high school was a new experience, the emotions felt going into this year were definitely mixed. Each individual had his own idea of what was most outstanding during the year. The athletes felt that their contribution to the award-winning football team was the most memorable event during the year. Others thought that simply seeing new faces gave a boost to their year. Each of these components led to a great year that the sophomores will not soon forget.

Graduation—peak of Freshman year

Graduation into high school highlights a Freshman's year as he travels one step closer to that all important Senior graduation.

Participating in and viewing sporting events, sponsoring a booth at the Halloween carnival and electing officers kept the Freshmen of '76 busy.

7th graders move upstream

New faces, new buildings, new adjustments—all these are encountered in the jump from elementary to junior high. This class has overcome these obstacles well and have learned to accomplish tasks together which will mold memories to be held long after.

Finding a corner in which to relax are seventh grade officers Tracy Casey, Reporter; Kim Short, Secretary-Treasurer; Terry Saul, President; and Barbara McKinney, Vice President.

6th strengthen and broaden knowledge

The last year of elementary school! But before the sixth grade could go across the street with the "big" kids they had many things to learn and experience. "I can't wait until next year," said one student. "I know it will be harder and I'll learn new things, but right now I'll just have fun over here."

Sixth graders find other things to do to occupy their time before school lets out.

Fourth find learning fun

Learning and doing; that is what elementary school is all about, and these fourth grade pupils are perfect examples of young people wanting to know more of the world around them. By their making new friends and meeting different teachers, they have matured into what will someday become productive, responsible citizens.

Third graders share learning experiences

Third Grade is a time for learning, so the pupils of this class explained what they best liked to learn. Vicki Brown said, "I like to do cursive writing." Tommy Abercrombie liked to do experiments in science and Tab Byrum learned to multiply and divide. Although they enjoyed all these things, Jackie Klintworth summed up what the class most enjoyed when she said, "I like recess the best."

Kindergarteners begin academic voyage

A start in life—that is what these kindergarten students are getting. The education which they are receiving during their early years will become the foundation of a lifetime, each new lesson becoming the cornerstone. It is important that their education begin here and continue throughout their lives.

From office aides . . . to band aides

"An aide's work is never done," is a popular adaptation of a famous quote, and it just happens to be true here at Mannford. Grading papers, giving tests, and picking up admit slips are among the many jobs of an aide. So next time you see one of these hard-working individuals scurrying down the hall, just think, next year that may be you!

Personnel

Doyle Fryar, custodian and bus driver, and Roberta Meyer custodian. NOT PICTURED is Bill Patrick, custodian of the elementary school

Bill Hartsock, James Blankenship, Jeanie Silkey, Charles Silkey and Steve Latty all of whom are student custodians.

We are lucky here at Mannford in many ways, not the least of which is our magnificent staff of personnel. Cooks, custodians, busdrivers; all work together to make our school run more smoothly.

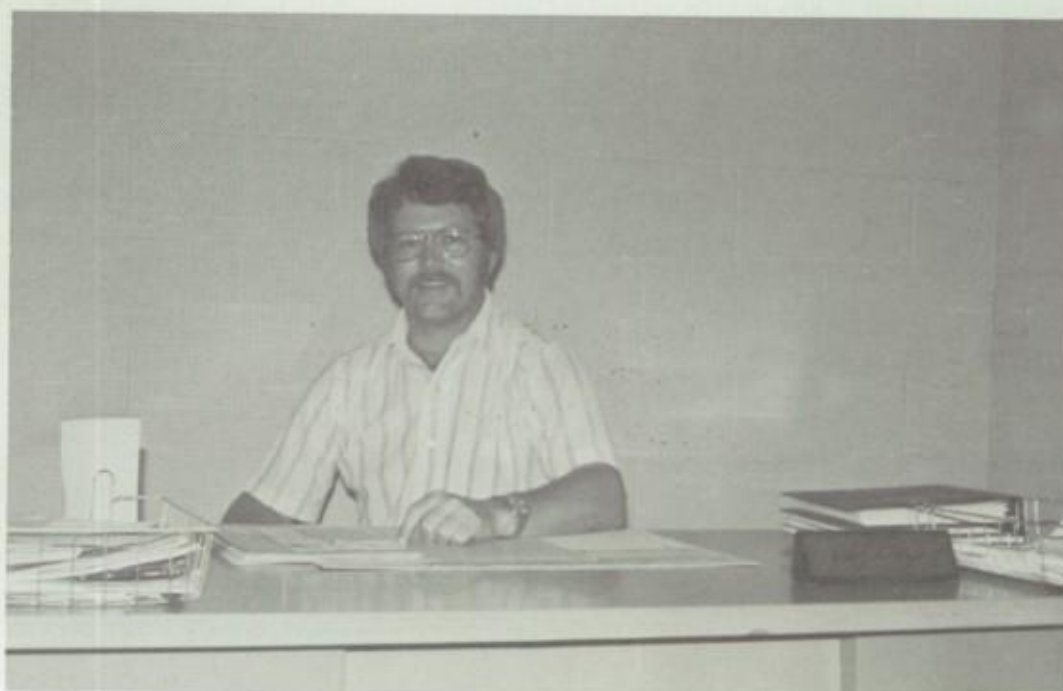

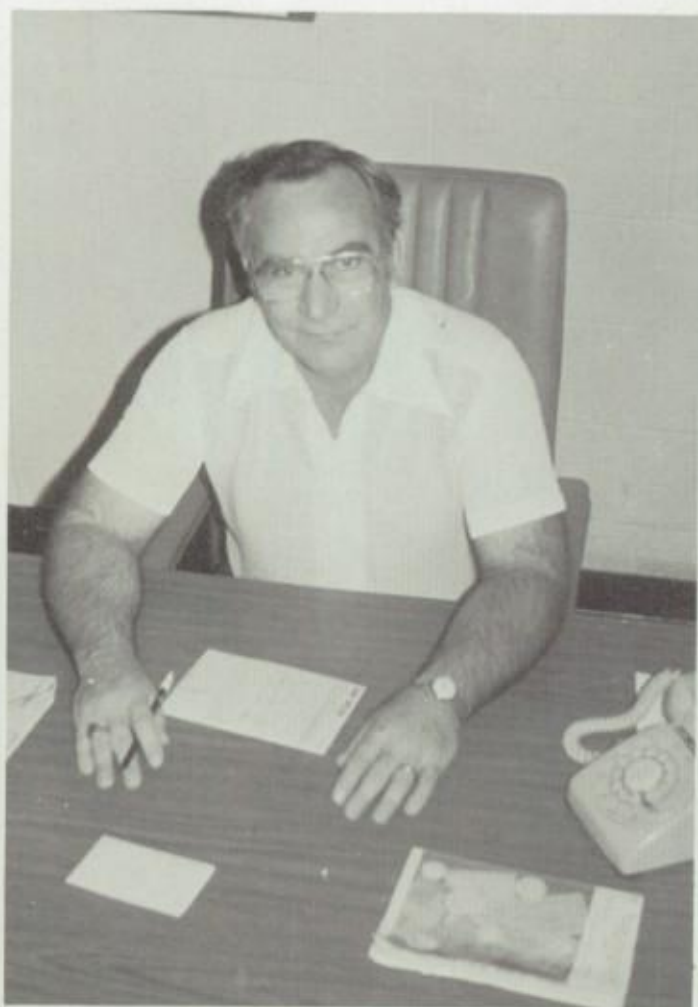

NOT PICTURED, but still an important part of the school, are the bus drivers. Harmon Baker, Boyd Cole, Linda Friend, Billie Shurley, Jess Newport, Scott Byrom, Mike Harness, Charles Silkey, Chris McCarty, Gerald Hendricks and Calvin Kennedy.

Goodbye Charlie?

Juniors soon found they were not saying goodbye to Charlie; but, they were saying hello to long play practices, engineering props, memorizing lines, finding suitable costumes and then fitting these pieces together to form a play—a production.

After a month and a half of continuous practice, the Junior class presented GOODBYE CHARLIE written by George Axelrod in an afternoon and a night performance November 21 and 22.

GOODBYE CHARLIE is a comedy situation centered around Charlie's (Sharon Sczesny) reincarnation from a man to a woman and how he handles the situations surrounding her transformation. The story develops with Charlie falling in love with her closest buddy, George (Steven Latty), and with her attempts to collect blackmail money from an old girl friend, Rusty (Linda Brasier).

When this trio of incompatible personalities reach a boiling point in their relationships, what can be done? Erase the past; begin again with the same characters only change their attitudes. Then, and only then, do Charlie and George realize their dreams of altering their character.

Although several junior class members were behind the scene working with props, makeup, and lighting, the play was performed by a cast of only three people—Sharon Sczesny, Steven Latty, and Linda Brasier.

One cast member, Steven Latty stated, "The roughest part of play practice was remembering lines and what time play practice was." Sharon Sczesny concluded, "The most difficult part was trying to walk and think like a man."

Even through the difficulties and problems which preceded the performance, each cast member felt a certain satisfaction in knowing he did his best!

Don't Drink the Water?

A trip abroad for most people would mean only minor difficulties such as keeping away from the water. But for Walter Hollander (Chris Ledbetter), Marion Hollander (Linda Greer), and Susan Hollander (Cindy Shuck), a vacation behind the iron curtain proves disastrous. When Walter accidentally takes pictures of some missile sights and rocket installations, he finds Ms. Krojack (Melinda Peeples) after him and his family. What does he do? Run! He and his family flee to the American Embassy where they meet some interesting people. They encounter Father Drobney (Bruce Zickefoose), Ambassador Magee (Jay Newport), Ms. Kilroy (Bernice McKaughan), Axel Magee (Brian Langston), Ms. Burns (Susie Sutton), The Sultan of Bashir (Danny Moyer), the Sultan's Wife (Gena Box), Kasner (Steve Black), Countess Bordoni (Toni Moseley), and the Chef (Jeff Norwood).

The story develops with Susan and Axel falling in love during several comical attempts to escape. After a few bombing and shooting fiascos, the Hollanders finally are able to escape posing as the Sultan and his wife. However, to the dismay of her father, Susan remains to marry Axel.

The play was written by Woody Allen and originally produced by David Merrick. Three performances were given on March 4 and 5. After these performances, one member of the cast commented on the production. Bruce Zickefoose summarized the feeling of the play by saying, "It's just a great feeling to have everyone working together, laughing with you when you're happy and lifting your spirits when you're worrying about messing up."

Bye Bye Birdie?

"Bye Bye Birdie" can best be described as stupendous, excellent, comical, and the musical that almost wasn't. For two months sickness, other school activities, long practices, confusing scripts, costumes, and scenery plagued the musical cast.

"Bye Bye Birdie" relates how Conrad Birdie (Joe Ledbetter), a teenage sex symbol, is drafted into the army. His manager Albert Peterson (Jeff Schaefer) is crushed by the news knowing his income rests on Conrad's singing voice. Luckily, Albert's secretary, Rosie Alvarez (Melinda Peeples), devises a plan to make a mint off Conrad before he goes into the army.

The cast includes Jeff Schaefer (Albert Peterson), Melinda Peeples (Rosie Alvarez), Joe Ledbetter (Conrad Birdie), Debbie Setchell (Kim MacAfee), Steve Black (Hugo Peabody), Jody Tyson (Mrs. Peterson), Jay Newport (Mr. MacAfee), Cynthia Dupus (Mrs. MacAfee), Timmy Crane (Randolph MacAfee), Jeri Childers (Ursula Merkle), Tammy Prickett (Mrs. Merkle), Robert Chailer (Mayor), Karen Flippo (Gloria Rasputin), Steven Latty (Bartender), Butch Ausbrook (Policeman), Steve Green (Town Drunk), Sharon Sezesny (Mayor's Wife), Stan Noble (Reporter), Brian Swift (Reporter), Barbie McKinney (Sad Girl) and Sue Black, Sylvia Floyd, Diane Steward, Lisa McIntire, Melanie Goddard, Cindy Kear, and David Swezey as the teenagers.

It was presented May 13 and 14 in three performances. The limited space of the stage and the size of the cast, proved an additional challenge along with changing scenery quickly and quietly.

Mike Enos uses a football to help him symbolize the beheading of Macbeth. Linda Brasier gives a demonstration speech on how to prepare a variety of Christmas cookies. Melodie Rumore, Preston Box, Gena Box, and Bruce Zickefoose give a comical presentation of "Twas the Night Before Christmas . . ." Steve Black and Mike Enos have their own interpretation of a battle between Macbeth and Malcolm. Taking it easy are the library aides, from left to right, Toni Moseley, Pat Childress, Cynthia Dupus, Debbie Setchell, Susan Bernard, Melodie Rumore, and Michelle Henry.

Understanding Each Other

Perhaps the first and most important part of beginning anything is comprehending what one hears and sees. Several classes have been designed to destroy the barriers of misrepresentation and misunderstanding. These classes broaden knowledge of language in English class and attempt to relay thoughts and inspirations through speech, drama, debate and journalism classes. Then, if one's own language proves inadequate, it is possible to do one of two things—either explore the resources of the library or enroll in a Spanish I class.

Each communications class emerged with its own variety of activities. At Christmas time, students sang Spanish Christmas songs over the public address system. Keeping in the spirit, the Speech students performed comical Christmas skits. The journalism students busied themselves with learning to produce their own newspaper while the debate students investigated the pros and cons of controversial issues. Some English students analyzed Shakespeare's plays and sometimes even re-enacted a few scenes from those plays. Through such class activities the students began to learn from each other.

Learning From Each Other

Probably the most significant answer to classroom endurance is the inspiration which can be experienced in a one-to-one relationship. In the science, humanities, art, and math oriented classes, students found it easier to learn from each others mistakes and triumphs.

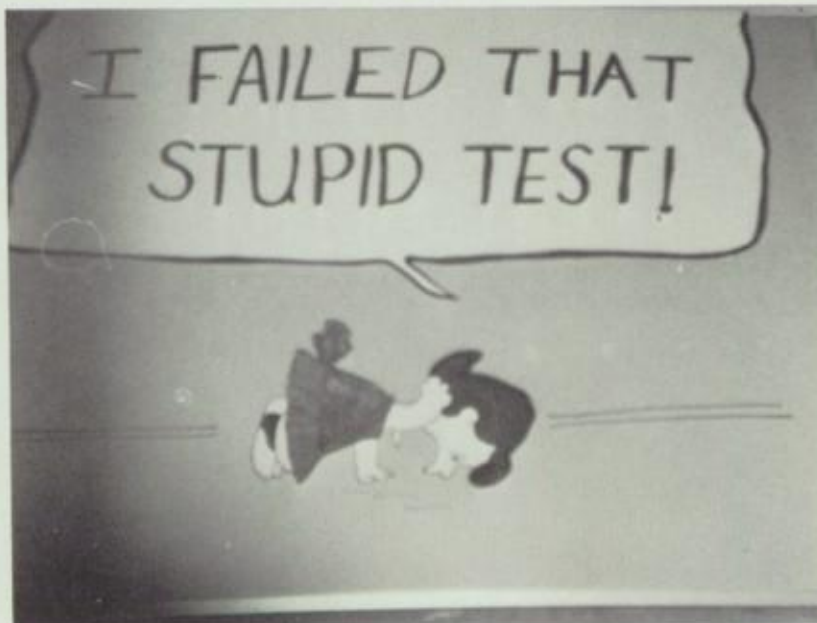

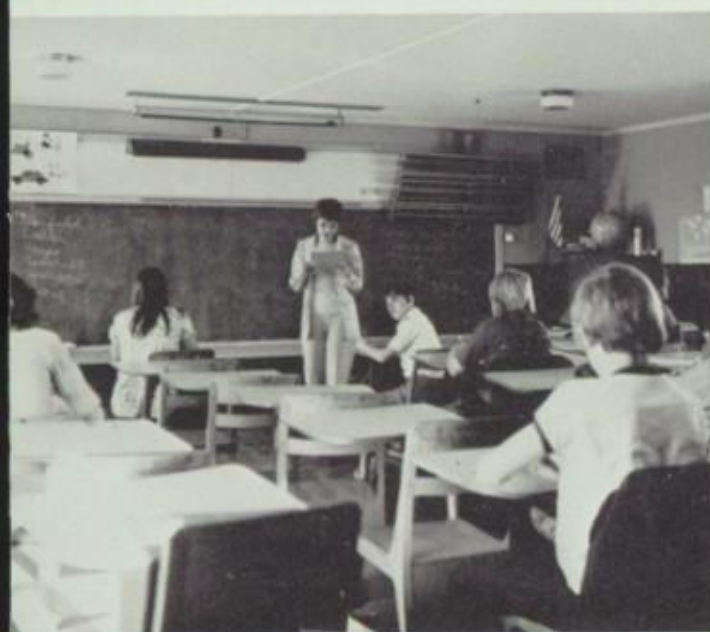

An expanding science department made available two chemistry courses, a physics course, an intermediate science curriculum course, and a Biology I and II course. The Biology II class found a mini course on first aid an interesting and informative study while the ISCS students worked at their own speed on individual experiments. The chemistry classes busied themselves with preparations for a chemical magic show to be presented to the first graders. Geometrical string designs and variables kept the geometry, Algebra I, and Algebra II students involved in the mathematics of every day life. Music theory students busied themselves with turning notes, lines, and spaces into their own kind of song. Art students found recreating scenes from photos of the old town of Mannford interesting as well as educational.

Students soon found they were not only learning FROM each other but learning WITH each other the how's and why's of working it out together.

Science students seem to have too much potential energy. Joy Hover and Tammy Malicoate discuss the different methods of putting together a story. Janet Pollard and Lisa Garret find the student lounge a good place to catch up on homework during the day.

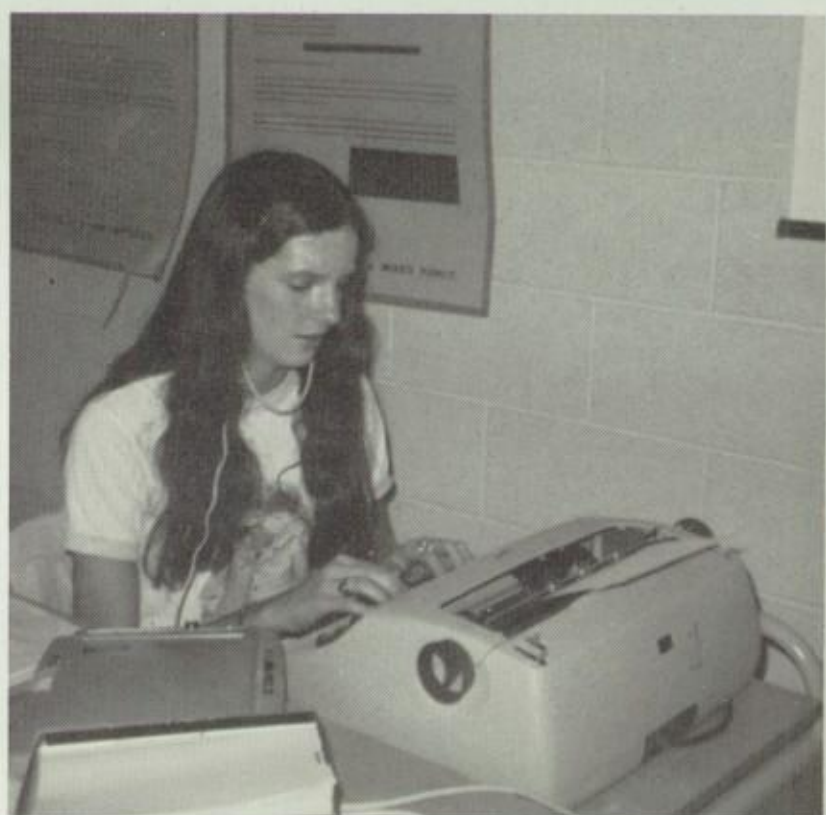

Students find the science lab a chance to experiment and reach conclusions about those experiments. American history students listen to a lecture given by Mrs. Pierce. Gail Johnson and Delores Faulkner use their free time to finish homework and to find out what's in the news. Mr. Goddard's math class seem more interested in having their picture taken than in finding answers to equations. A poster on Miss Stockton's wall revealed the frustration each student feels sometime or another.

Lisa MacIntire and Raeline Alsip prepare to try their luck behind the wheel of the Drivers Ed car. Cindy Kear finds doing shorthand homework a necessity when trying to improve her speed. Carolyn Ward becomes engrossed in her thoughts in year-book class. Tammy Prickett and Penny Patrick find practice the only way to increase their speed and accuracy. Jeannie Scissom strives to acquire skill and accuracy on the dictaphone.

Working With Each Other

The most satisfying aspect of accomplishing anything is working the difficulties out together. Several classes including home economics, agriculture, drivers education, Typing I and II, bookkeeping, shorthand, general business, Select Group, band, yearbook, and newspaper reflected the satisfaction which accompanies a lasting achievement.

Home economics students could be found learning how to work together in a home-life situation. Although cooking and sewing were a must, these classes also tried making their own house plans and learning about the feeding and caring of babies.

Cropping and proportioning gave the yearbook students many headaches. Likewise, the newspaper students felt the pressures of deadlines and selling ads. But their work paid off in benefits of self-satisfaction and pride in a job completed.

Whatever the class or grade, students mirrored their attitudes in how well they tried to understand each other, to learn from each other, and to work with each other.

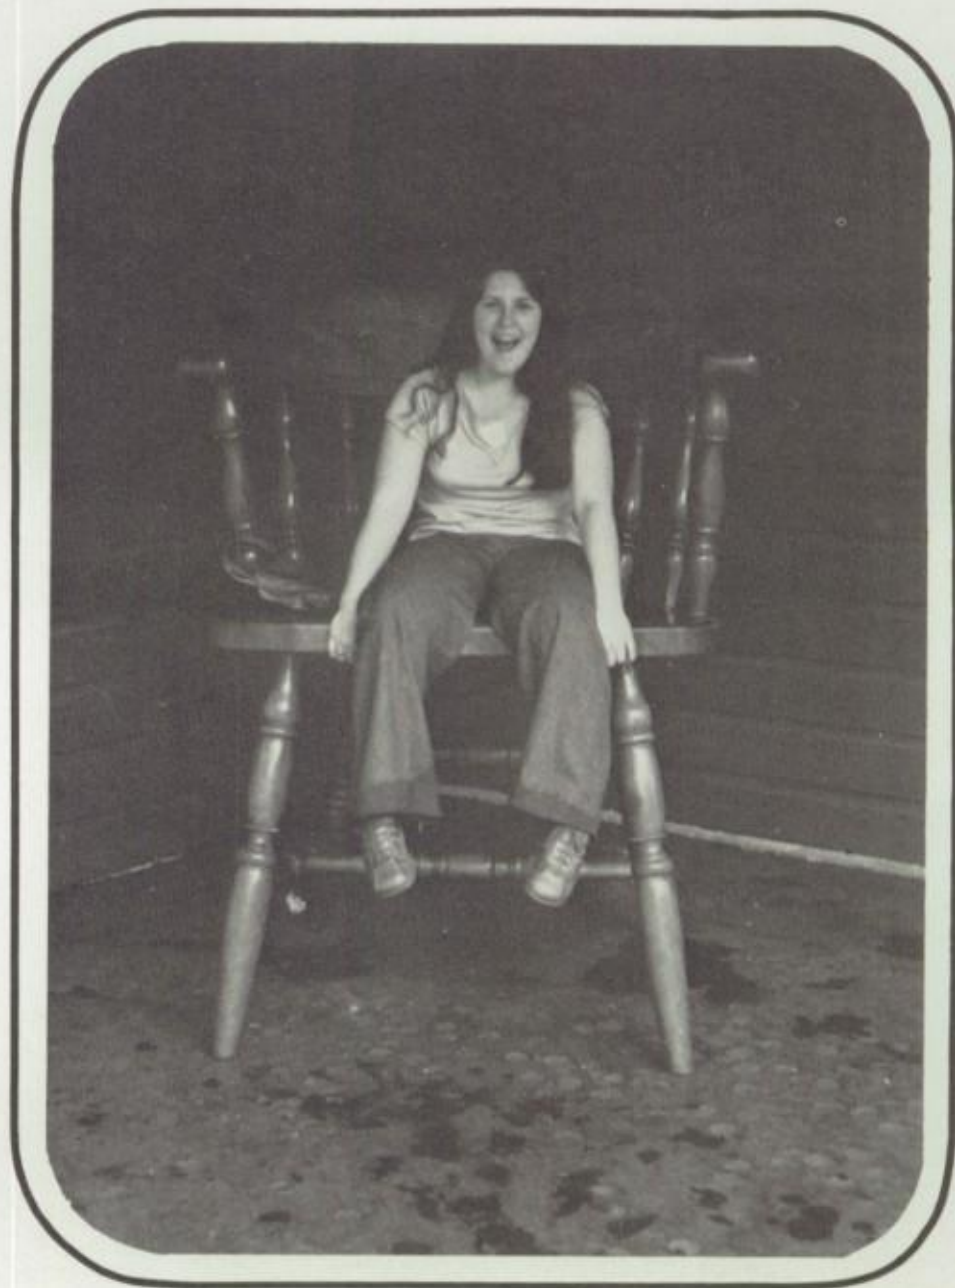

Steve Black wants to know what is cooking. Pat Childers puts her fingers to work typing a letter. Melinda Peebles and Karen Flippo discuss yearbook copy and layout design. Penny Patrick coaxes a colt to come a little closer.

"Where's a pica stick? Someone stole mine."

"Doug, do you have that picture I need for the junior play page?"

"How about my picture for the student council page?"

"What can we do about those aide pictures; this is the fifth time something's gone wrong and Mr. Bowers won't let us reschedule them again."

"Melinda, do you have my copy written for the Spanish Club?"
What do you mean—they didn't do anything to write about?"

"Is it true that our editor cringes at the sight of whipped cream?"

Science clubs seek new horizons

This year the science department was enlarged with a new addition—the Junior High Science Club. Although two separate organizations both incorporated learning and fun to provide students a taste of science in today's world, and its responsibilities in tomorrow's.

While the junior high constructed rockets, and enlarged their new club, the high school visited Phillips Petroleum, Woolaroc Museum, Annual Frontiers of science Spring symposium, and spent the week of spring break roughing it at the Keystone camp in the mountains of Colorado. Members of the club participated in a chemistry magic show presented to the first grade, and made a tour of the Keystone Dam and the Steel Mill in Tulsa. Aside from a damaged booth at the Assembly center, the group managed to remain unharmed and healthy throughout their hectic year. There were so many things to see and do, that time ran out before they could reach the other side of the horizon. There will be many more memories to keep with them as they continue to seek the other side.

'The Pride' staff wins top honors at Northeastern

Only two of the eleven "Pride" staffers had had journalism at the year's beginning. Each staffer, however, found his or her own special talent and contributed that talent to "The Pride" so that in March it nabbed top honors at the Northeastern State Press Day, the only competition it entered.

"The Pride" and its staff truly deserve the compliment "A job well done."

Thespians

"A Mad World"

Remaining an active group on campus was the Thespian Club. Besides attending a number of plays on the University of Tulsa campus, the group also produced an assembly, "It's a Mad, Mad, Mad, Mad World," consisting of entirely original material submitted by members of the club. The members of the organization, obviously dedicated, arose at 5:00 AM for many mornings to rehearse the assembly. In addition to producing the assembly, members of the Thespians helped behind the curtains with other productions such as the Junior and Senior plays and the Select Group musical.

Select group presents "Bye Bye Birdie"

The 50's musical "Bye Bye Birdie" climaxed the Select Group year as many long hours of practice resulted in two performances—a student matinee and a night performance.

The group began working on contest numbers earlier than usual, but also performed popular numbers in concerts throughout the state.

District contest resulted in a two rating for the entire group, while two madrigals from Select received one ratings.

These same madrigals rated a two at state contest, despite the loss of their music.

Spanish club has active year

The MHS Spanish club, in its second year of organization, boasted 19 members and numerous activities throughout the year.

Members sponsored the balloon toss at the annual Halloween carnival which was, as the sponsor, Sharrie Killion, put it, "Wet and Wild."

A meeting with the Cleveland Spanish Club and a program featuring Father Denwitty, a Guatamalan missionary, were also included in the year's activities.

Business was mixed with pleasure when meetings were held at Tulsa's Casa Bonita and Mannford's Casa Vieja restaurants.

Student Council

The main goals were unity and pride, and the group made great strides toward achieving them. Through assemblies and simple person-to-person talks, the Council communicated the idea of pride in school and community.

Most of this year's effort was channeled into raising the $3,500 given to start the tennis courts construction. The money was earned by selling shirts, sponsoring dances, and collecting money made in the Student Lounge.

Who are the people that arrange pep assemblies, work hours to perfect routines, boost egos when the team is winning, and cheer the team to victory when losing? The Cheerleaders! Even before the school year begins, our girls are learning cheers at cheerleading clinics. When they arrive home, there is more work in store. They polish their routines until they are perfect. "Just watch them," someone admired. "They really work hard to keep the spirit alive!"

Pep club— first in spirit

This years' pep club sponsors were Sharon Wallace for the high school and Diana Smith for the junior high. We've been blessed with good workers, good sponsors, a winning football team and most of all, a number one student body. Mannford's Pep Club has indeed, been first in spirit in 1976.

Drive, Football boys' dinner, FHA week and made a Bicentennial quilt. The school year ended with the state rally in Oklahoma City and the FHA Mother-Daughter Banquet.

FFA-A Future For America

During the greenhand initiation there is always the traditional board line.

The Mannford FFA chapter was involved with their community as well as country this year. Their work represented not only an organization, but also a life. Some of the highlights of the activities were the attendance at the National FFA convention where the Milk Quality and Dairy Foods Team won seventh place, the winning of a Bronze Emblem for Superior Chapter in Oklahoma, and attendance on November 24 to a leadership Conference at Sapulpa. A former National FFA Secretary once said in his address to members from around the United States, "The Future Farmers of America has stood up as a beacon of light in leadership and citizenship to all America since it was founded in 1928. The new diversity of our agricultural career objectives and the common bond of our interest and love for agriculture will unite to make this organization even greater."

Mannford Band

The Pirate Stage Band in action.

The Band of Pirates. An important name around the school. Since acquiring uniforms, the band seemed to grow ever more rapidly until an additional forty uniforms had to be ordered. The band has been very busy this year. The Concert band went to district contest in Bartlesville where they received a rating of two. The Marching band of Pirates went to District Contest and received a three after which they marched on to Henrietta contest to earn a two in competition.

A new addition to the band is the band jacket. The band jacket, similar in uniform to the athletic jacket, is a coveted prize, won only by the most deserving band members.

A great attraction this year has been the Stage Band. Started only two years ago, this small group of musicians blasted their way into the hearts of Mannford. This years Stage Band attended a contest for the first time at Perkins Jazz Festival in which, they rated a high two. Then the band rocked on to State Stage Band contest in which they rated very high, two two's, and one three. Congratulations Band.

Faculty Follies

I, Linda Brasier, Editor-In-Chief of the Mannford High School Yearbook Staff, would like to show my appreciation to the many people who helped in making our yearbook a reality. Among these people are the businessmen who bought ads in the yearbook and the many people who bought yearbooks. Without these people we wouldn't have had the money to put out a yearbook. I would also like to thank the principals, superintendent and faculty for allowing the yearbook staff to interrupt classes to take pictures, talk to people, and sell money-making items. We know the teachers hate being interrupted while they are trying to teach class, but we also hope the teachers know that if there was any other way we would do it. My advisor, Elaine Whitworth, deserves the whole staff's thanks for staying at school after it was out to complete many of the pages of the staff members who would not do their pages. To staff members Diana Chailer, Mindy Edwards, Bernice McKaughan, Melinda Peeples, Doug Taylor, Carolyn Ward, Cheryl Bartley, and Paula Stinson, who did complete their pages, many thanks.
